Folks:

We continue to get questions about off-island travel.

Personally, I thought I was clear.

If you traveled off-island and returned to Guam from any destination, irrespective of its current classification, you must self-quarantine for 14 days.

What about Palau? What about Saipan? What about Hawaii? What about the continental United States?

They all qualify as off-island destinations. During that travel you will interact with multiple strangers; you will travel through other airports; you will sit in airplanes; etc. All of those areas are high risk.

The prescribed action was enacted to minimize risk to others.

It is a disturbing fact that our lives are now immeasurably and perhaps irrevocably disrupted by COVID-19.

At some future point, our lives will smooth out. Pray fervently and frequently for that time to be sooner rather than later.

May God Bless you all.
